

University of Zurich UZH

Department of Economics – Neuroeconomics Seminar

November 21, 2019 - 17:00 - 18:00

Dominique de Quervain
University of Basel

Stress and Memory

Stress has a profound impact on learning and memory. I will talk about the underlying biological mechanisms and will discuss the clinical implications. Further, I will present studies on the genetic and epigenetic basis of the variability of human memory performance and finally I will show how we use virtual and augmented reality in the field of human emotion and cognition.